

Age range taught: Toddlers - Grade Three

Music-making with purpose: -more than just 'Twinkle, twinkle'.

Children's music education materials should be chosen as carefully as choosing food for them. Zoltan Kodaly

This hands-on, interactive workshop will investigate the links between music and young children's development, success in other areas of the curriculum and self-regulation. The importance of choosing music experiences of a high quality for young children will be explored, because 'for the very young, only the best is good enough.'

Teaching Standards: Australian Professional Standards for Teachers: 1, 2, 3, 4, 6 | NQS Quality Areas: 1,2,3,5,6

Presenter: Sue Lewin –

Sue Lewin is an early childhood teacher, musician and songwriter. She has produced eleven music CDs for young children.

Her collaborations include Indigenous educator and singer Sharron Lindh, well known children's musician Mike Jackson and performer and songwriter Peter Stewart. Sue's musical, 'Dancing the Boomchacha Boogie' (based on the picture book by award winning author/illustrator Narelle Oliver), was staged as a children's musical in London. She is passionate about early years' music education and the links between music and self-regulations development.
